Lending a Hand

I bring over 25 years of expertise in leadership, plant management, project management, supply chain management, and new product development to the IMEC team. Having worked in - and lead - a variety of organizations on 6 continents, I have been fortunate to learn about different cultures and gain different perspectives on approaching and solving problems.

This global perspective is helpful in working with small and mid-sized manufacturers in parts of northern Illinois. At IMEC, I have the exciting opportunity to help these manufacturers with strategic improvements so they can become more competitive on a local and global level.

My Background

My career in Operations and Supply Chain Management started in the United States Navy. For the past 25 years, I have had the opportunity to work in a variety of operations and leadership roles across a range of industries including consumer electronics, technology, CPG, and industrial organizations. Prior to joining IMEC, I served as the Director of Global Operations at a large manufacturer.

I received a Bachelor of Science in Aviation Management from Southern University – Carbondale, a Master of Science in Telecommunications from DePaul University, and an Executive MBA from the University of Illinois -Urbana/Champaign. I also earned a Project Management Professional (PMP) Certificate from the Project Management Institute.
